Define and practice The 5 Pillars of the Behavioural Facilitation Method.

Through group work and opportunities to practice, participants reveal the usefulness of the 5 Behavioural Facilitation Pillars. Each participant understands and has demonstrated the 5 fundamental skills necessary to be an effective facilitator. Accomplished by:

- Facilitating 2 short presentations, one on each day about fun and light topics
- Gathering structured feedback in a supportive environment

A straight-forward and practical approach to Inquiry-based & Experiential Learning.

"Intentionality": In the month since attending, I have been able to adapt some additional structure and intention into my own sessions from my experience in the Facilitation Fundamentals workshop.

When you set up clear learning outcomes it is so much easier to get meaningful results from your sessions. I have found the ideas shared to be more thought out and discussion more meaningful with these systematic and active ways of engaging.

Dave Hardy ~ Think Shift

Definitely, I will recommend this workshop. It was a fun way of learning new strategies and enhancing your skills as facilitator. There were no dull moments and every second counts. All the activities were carefully planned and were highly adaptable. I actually applied most of the new methods and I found them effective.
